Claim Objections

Claim 24 is objected to because an article such as “a” or “the” should precede “separating on line 3 of claim 24. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 10, 12-15 and 17-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Recitations such as “the door window” on line 12 of page 10 render the claims indefinite because they lack antecedent basis. Recitations such as “a fully retracted curved vehicle door window” on lines 3-4 of claim 12 render the claims indefinite because it is unclear if the applicant is referring to the door window set forth above or is attempting to set forth another window in addition to the one set forth above. Recitations such as “the vehicle” on line 4 of claim 15 render the claims indefinite because it is unclear if the applicant is referring to the vehicle body or is attempting to set forth the vehicle in addition to the vehicle body set forth above. Recitations such as “a curved shape of a fully retracted door window” on line 18 of claim 20 render the claims indefinite because it is unclear if the applicant is referring to the fully retracted vehicle door window set forth above or is attempting to set forth another door window in addition to the one set forth above. Recitations such as “the vehicle” on lines 3-4 of claim 23 render the claims indefinite because they lack antecedent basis. Recitations such as “an interior” on line 3 of claim 25 render the claims indefinite because it is unclear if the applicant is referring to the interior set forth above or is attempting to set forth another interior in addition to the one set forth above.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 10, 12, 14, 15, 17, 19-21, 23-25, 27 and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over German Patent Publication No. 195 09 282 in view of Wilson and Renner et al. German Patent Publication No. 195 09 282 discloses a component support assembly for a vehicle door, comprising a rigid double-shell box structure having a first wall 5a facing an interior of the vehicle and a second wall 3 facing an exterior of the vehicle, the second wall having at least first 31 and second (not numbered, but comprising the indentation for receiving the drive and control device 9) hollows separated by a separating member (not numbered, but seen in the figure as the portion of the second wall separating the first and second hollows), the first wall being connected to said second wall thereby forming an enclosed volume with the first hollow of the second wall and a vehicle door component 4 attached to the first wall and a vehicle door component 90, 91 directly mounted to the first wall so as to be located within the enclosed volume and so as to independently supported by the rigid double shell box structure, an outer panel (not shown), an interior lining 6 and a window lifter 1 mounted to the second wall. It should be noted that since the switches 92 and 93 of the vehicle door component 90, 91 extend through openings in the first wall 5a, the vehicle door component 90, 91 is directly mounted to the first wall. German Patent Publication

Art Unit: 3634

No. 195 09 282 appears to be silent concerning mounting a plurality of door components directly to the first wall and a curved shape.

However, Wilson teaches mounting an airbag restrain system 14 directly to the interior trim panel 18 of a vehicle door 12.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to mount the airbag restraint system 4 of German Patent Publication No. 195 09 282 directly to the first wall 5a, as taught by Wilson, to ensure the frangible seam of the cover 53a breaks properly upon deployment of the airbag.

Additionally, Renner et al. discloses a vehicle door comprising a window panel 8 having a curved shape which substantially corresponds to a curved shape of an inner panel 1.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide German Patent Publication No. 195 09 282 with a curved shape, as taught by Renner et al., to improve the aesthetic appearance of the vehicle via the curved window panel.

Claims 13, 18, 22 and 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over German Patent Publication No. 195 09 282 in view of Wilson and Renner et al. as applied to claims 10, 12, 14, 15, 17, 19-21, 23-25, 27 and 28 above, and further in view of Finch et al. Finch et al. disclose a vehicle door comprising a body of foam 11 for side impact protection.

Art Unit: 3634

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide German Patent Publication No. 195 09 282, as modified above, with a body of foam, as taught by Finch et al., to attenuate the forces generated during side impacts.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed September 23, 2003 have been fully considered but are moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS NOT MADE FINAL.
